SPRING sounds new notes in HABERDASHERY

The well dressed man this spring and summer is going to be a bird of gay plumage indeed. Color, almost to the point of exotic expression, is prescribed for all manner of furnishing goods. Shirts run to high color, neckwear is of dazzling hues and intricate pattern motifs; hosiery is, to say the least, flamboyant. Even the handkerchief (and it's an important accessory this season in the well dressed man's scheme of attire) is to be ornate and colorful. But to particularize: Colored shirts dominate the style of the season. While white shirts have their place—mostly for sport occasions such as golf, tennis, boating and summer resort wear, for the daily dress the shirt to be light must be colored and usually with the collar to match. These can be laundered collars, as they probably will be for the early spring months, and later the soft collar or collar-attached shirt will become prominent. And these shirts are not merely colored but they are obtrusively in their pattern treatments as well. Stripes will be more or less bold, and even more hilarious will be the figured designs—battic effects, all-over floral treatments, scroll and conventional motifs—anything that will make the man look more like the Parisian boulevardier than a sedate American business man. Some of these designs, are even Frenchy to the point of effeminacy, employing delicate pastel shades. Madras and Broadcloth Rule. Such shirts are in madras cloth, light weight broadcloths, and such branded weaves as our under specialty names like radium weaves, etc. Light weight French flannels will also be considered very dressy with their matched collars attached. Neckwear for the spring will be in the standard weaves, such as moogadors, satin brocades, repps, etc., but as the season advances we will see more of the summer fabrics used. These are light crepes, silk and wool mixtures, pongees, taffetas, foulards, and handkerchief silks. The pattern are for the most part loud and the colors warm. All-over floral and conventional designs are in high favor, and in the crepes there will be intricate mixtures. Four-in-hand shapes still obtain, but the tie wide promises to be strong. Loud Effects in Hosiery. Hosiery stops at nothing in creating effect. Loud blocks, plaids, diamond effects and horizontal stripes are the thing for the younger and more spirited dresser. As a consequence of this, the wool and worsted textures will be more popular than the silks or lises. Silk and wool mixtures will be very good. Not all men will go to these strong effects, and many more men like nothing but the silks or lises, those so that fashion is lenient and pliant to such demands. Accordingly, there will be lots of the silk and lise hosiery in the shops. Most of these will be somewhat patterned, clocked or embroidered, for color must assert itself somewhere. With Borders on Hankies. Handkerchiefs have wide borders and large patterns. These, of course, are the dress handkerchiefs—those that are purchased for no other purpose than to peek out of the breast pocket. They are in silks or fine linens. Some have extravagant all-over designs. Pajama innovations are more noted through new and rather artistic modeling of French influence. This feeling is secured as much from the unique lines as in the novelty weaves and exotic patterns. Sargent hardware, Fabco paints, and good lumber. Consolidated Lumber Co.—Adv. Understand these are the novelties of the season. The conservative man will wear practically the same type of weajamas in weaves and models as heretofore. Little Change is Noted. In such things as underwear, belts, gloves, etc., no noteworthy changes have appeared, though precedent indicates that many new ventures will be launched as the summer season comes around. This has always proven so, and always will be so, as the originality and ingenuity of designers strive for new effects. However, most of such ventures are of short duration and out of a season of many, only a very few are really accepted and become a factor in the season's styles. Bobby Brumpton Has Nice Party. Reinforce Glands To Keep Young Says Scientist. DR. ARNOLD LORAND, of Austria, says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands: "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions if changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy young animals." Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, prepared in tablet form, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Hundreds of men and women who are weak, worn-out, and run-down, are taking Glandogen to awaken the devitalized glands, so they may continue their normal function of supplying the vital glandular secretions so necessary to physical energy and perfect health. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic. Beacon Drug Co. Torrance
